

Domagoj Lausic was born in Zagreb, Croatia. He earned a Ph.D. in Sport Psychology from Florida State University. His research interests include team communication, development of expertise, periodization, and biofeedback.

His work has been published in scientific and coaching publications and presented at national and international conferences. With an educational background in tennis, Dr. Lausic has been a PTR National Tester, clinician, and a Symposium speaker.

Additionally, he is a Certified Mental Performance Consultant through the Association of Applied Sport Psychology (CMPC-AASP), is USPTA Elite Professional certified, and has completed all USTA science testing levels and the High Performance coaching program.

His experience includes working with athletes on Olympic, professional, collegiate, and junior levels, as well as several NCAA Division 1 teams.

In 2011, he co-founded Hourglass Performance Institute® where he serves as the Director of Tennis and Competitive Shooting. Domagoj also serves as the Director of Mental Toughness and Performance at John McEnroe Tennis Academy.

He considers himself fortunate as his hobby is his profession. In addition, he enjoys running, traveling, as well as listening to and playing music.